Sukoró is a picturesque settlement located between the northern shore of Lake Velence and the southeastern foot of the Velence Hills. It has a very favorable geographical location within Hungary, being 49 km from Budapest, 10 km from Székesfehérvár, and 50 km from Lake Balaton (Siófok). All of this is accessible via the M7 motorway.

The spacious single-story house is located near the center and is easily accessible from the main road. The village offers everything necessary for a comfortable lifestyle.

The façade walls are made of Leier 30N+F bricks, and the interior partition walls are constructed from 10N+F bricks. The roof structure is a traditional truss with a thick timber frame and Bramac concrete tile covering, with ...
